To Whom It May Concern:

This is just a brief note to put down in print our thoughts and appreciation for the work that was most recently done on our home in Wallingford, CT.

My wife and I are pleased with the outcome of the work done, as well as the workers who actually put it all together. From the Draftsman to the General Contractor, and everyone in between. All the folks involved were professional and considerate, VERY patient, and tolerant of all our proposed changes and needs, along the way.

When we consider the time of year that the project was started, Jan thru March, we were amazed to see the work progressing, in snow, rain, sleet.....we were frankly amazed that they would be so dedicated to the work at hand.

Thanks again to everyone who went the extra mile, (like cutting up the unused wood for kindling for our wood stove, for example, or sweeping for nails, or leveling compromised lawns), and who put time in our plans and hopes. You made this experience for us as painless as possible and we appreciate that. The end result is wonderful and speaks for itself! You even had to work around four dogs, and their schedules, and did so without complaint or difficulty.

For those considering DiGiorgi for their project, you should know you are getting a tremendous crew of workers and coordinators. They will not disappoint you. They didn't disappoint us. Their prices were fair, and they were trustworthy, and showed a real creative streak in their thinking.
